LEATHER GAMES

Established in 1958, Geoffrey Parker set out to create board games which were the best of their kind, produced using the finest materials available and utilizing skills developed over a combined 250 years of leather artistry.

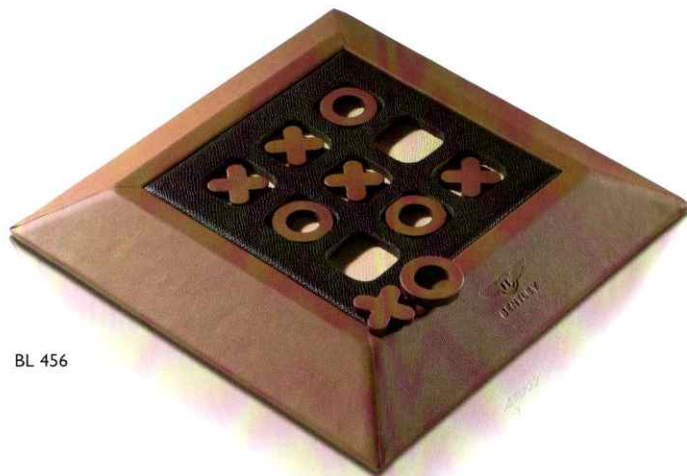

In the 1970's, the company was asked to take on the prestigious project to produce the boards for the World Backgammon Championship; a competition which saw the best players in the world competing fiercely on board the QE2 while at sail for a week between Southampton and New York.

To ensure that Geoffrey Parker stayed ahead of the 'game', they sought out the world's most formidable backgammon champion, Paul Magriel, to make certain that their boards matched professional requirements. This led to the development of the unique leather backgammon stone (checker).

This unique accessory epitomizes the company's personal precision, skill, craft and dedication to create a perfectly balanced playing piece of leather artistry, utilizing the ancient skill of fine edging, burnishing and papier mache – a process which is repeated 30 times for each set.

Today, the company continues to abide by these exacting standards in producing these exclusive games for Bentley.

BIRKIN SPOT

An original 'Bentley Boy', Captain Sir Henry 'Tim' Birkin was regarded as one of the greatest and certainly the most famous British racing drivers of his day. His reputation for courage and daring on the track, equally matched with his dashing, playboy lifestyle.

One of Birkin's legacies to Bentley history was his trademark 'lucky' blue and white polka dot silk scarf. This forms the inspiration for this singular range of silk accessories, now enhanced with several new items; bow tie, cravat, silk/cashmere scarf and a tubular scarf. The silk for all these items is dyed exclusively for Bentley by Adamley. This company has been producing traditional hand-printed silks for the past 30 years from its small, Victorian mill on the banks of the river Bollin, in Cheshire, England.

Only the finest 100% foulard silk is used in the Birkin Spot range. This is treated with a special dyeing process and hand printed exclusively for Bentley.

The classic Birkin Spot design exudes a timeless elegance of bygone days. It is automatically associated with the Bentley history and is instantly recognizable regardless of the style of accessory worn. The simple geometric pattern and classic color combination complement the understated beauty of the foulard silk.
